The property is located in the western half of Ottawa's downtown core bordering the edge of where the downtown office node (Constitution Square, Minto Place, and Place de Ville) meets Centretown-West's residential area offering a dynamic mix of both daytime and evening activity around the site.

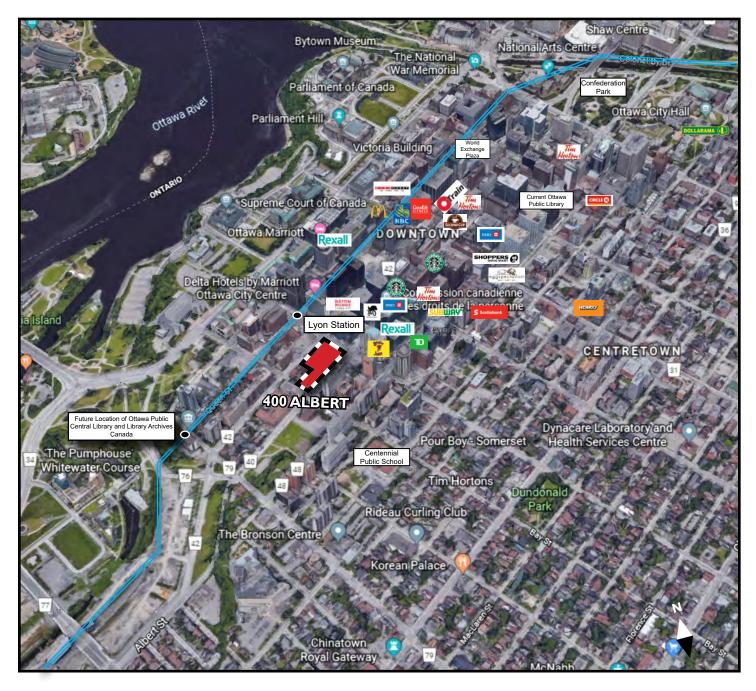

The unique character of the location is enhanced by tourism, hotel and institutional uses nearby. Supply of retail space in the trade area is clearly lacking as office and residential densities continue to grow, creating a strong business case for consumer and service related businesses to support the increasing demand. 400 Albert is a 1.5 acre site that is being developed into a multi-family mixed-use complex with construction expected to commence in 2021. Of particular importance to the plan is the newly constructed Ottawa Confederation LRT with its Lyon Street Station, accessible by underground tunnel, opposite the site which adds another dimension to the nearby trade area.

400 Albert will offer a uniquely urban and comfortable atmosphere for residents to live, work and shop. This site is an advantageous opportunity for retailers to acquire prime retail space in Ottawa's downtown core, with transit connectivity and an increasing population base.
